

DIVERSE TEAMS, DIVERSE COMMUNITIES: MAKING IT WORK

Our relationships with colleagues and clients are shaped by our daily interactions. These relationships determine to a great extent how we feel about our jobs and ourselves. Good relationships are the foundation for happiness and success on a personal and organisational level.

This workshop will provide practical tips for working in diverse teams and communities by helping us to

- Recognise impact of bias and unconscious bias on our relationships
- Develop cultural intelligence
- Resolve or prevent conflict by applying the Resolving Differences Model© Effective communication with people from diverse backgrounds
- Understand individual work preferences to augment team performance

Key outcomes will be

- Increased awareness of own work preferences, potential biases and how to mitigate them
- Enhanced capabilities to connect with people from diverse backgrounds
- Healthy and productive work relationships to enhance wellbeing and organisation performance
- Tips and Tricks on how to utilize the full capabilities of a diverse team

Participants will leave with an Action Plan and offer of individual follow up to support learning transfer.
