Brett McGregor teams up with The Village Press

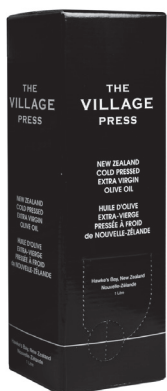

Brett McGregor, NZ Masterchef winner and ex Deputy Principal is passionate about the health of our youth. Teaming up with Village Press Olive oil they plan to rid our schools of the sweet and sickly fund raisers of the past and give them an opportunity to fundraise for their sports clubs and organisations - A completely healthy alternative with massive earning potential for any event etc you may need to raise money for. Whether you are heading overseas for sport or a special event this is one great way to get a head start on your competition.

"We are happy to provide this testimonial and offer our heartfelt thanks for the generous support Village Press Olive Oil has given Te Mata Primary School with our fundraising efforts. The Village Press are always open to requests for Fundraisers, assistance with getting them up and running and offer beneficial advice on product timing and offerings. Their products sell themselves as they are of an exceptional quality, beautifully packaged and presented, and locally made.

The Village Press are also passionate about giving something back to the community and this support has enabled us to fundraise at a level never achieved before. They also bring other companion companies and products to our attention, so we can maximise our offering and our profit for the benefit of the children of Te Mata School.

Village Press are a cornerstone fundraising partner with Te Mata School and their support has allowed us to provide many extras for the children over the past couple of years, including new astro turf surface for sports play, new sports uniforms, new iPads in the classrooms as well as many visiting musical, cultural and dance presentations.

Thank you sincerely Village Press Olive Oil from all the Staff, Students and Families of Te Mata Primary School! "
